

Snapshot of Greenbrier County, West Virginia

January–June 2021 Progress Report

Goals

- Increase capacity to facilitate systems, environment and policy change to advance health equity using a social determinants of health and common agenda framework
- Develop local "clinic–community" linkage system to connect health care organizations, providers and patients with health promotion workshop opportunities in the community
- Develop a hub to advance health equity

By the Numbers

- 39 people trained as masters or leaders in the Chronic Pain Self-Management Program
- 17 partner organizations engaged to promote access to health services, including 11 community ambassador groups

Success Stories

1. Disbursed mini grants focused on health equity, along with training, resources, and support to 11 "community ambassadors" as part of Community Ambassador Project

2. Local community hub signed an agreement with a development group to build senior housing, a medical clinic space and a central kitchen to provide USDA reimbursable meals

“Our project team has seen changes in the way that knowledge and information flows happen at the level of the 'grasstops,' the grassroots, and the overall community. There has been a consistent effective feedback loop from grasstops, to grassroots, to the overall community and back around information related to the pandemic and community needs.”
